Danebank Anglican School for Girls, Sydney

The Board of The Anglican Schools Corporation and the Council of Danebank Anglican School for Girls seek to appoint the next Principal of Danebank.

Our desire is to support every girl in being prepared for life. In a kind, caring environment that is underpinned by strong Christian foundations and a desire for excellence, the girls experience a holistic education that nurtures their learning and wellbeing. Relationships are central, whether between the girls and our remarkable teachers, or the connections with our families and wider community. We celebrate the diversity and richness that comes from having 54 cultures and 29 languages among our 1,038 students and nearly 200 staff on our single campus at Hurstville, Southern Sydney.

Our Christian worldview supports our well-developed approach to learning. We are committed to nurturing and extending this focus on learning for our superb staff, as well as for our students. Having recently opened our wonderful new building with enhanced facilities for our Junior School, we are setting our sights on the next phases of our masterplan development, ensuring that Danebank girls will enjoy an environment that supports the best possible outcomes in the decades to come.

Our next Principal will lead a vibrant learning community and work with Council to build on the strong foundations that have been established, always reflecting on how we can enhance the girls' educational experience.
